Who's Involved With Hunger:

An Organization Guide for Education and Advocacy

is dedicated to the women, men, and youth in these and similar organizations who persist

with hope and courage

against the odds

to build a world for all people

where human dignity is liberated, human community, fulfilled and a wounded Creation, healed.

A Message from Benjamin A. Gilman and Tony P. Hall

Dear Friends:

It is an honor and a pleasure to have this opportunity to welcome the reader to the sixth edition of Who's Involved With Hunger. Once again World Hunger Education Service has lived up to its reputation as a first-rate provider of key information helpful to hunger fighters.

Never before have we had an opportunity as we have today to make serious movement toward our goal of eliminating persistent hunger from our earth. The threat of nuclear war is on the wane and lines of communication between nations are becoming more open and stronger. However, while our opportunity is great, our challenges remain strong. For a variety of political and natural reasons, 1994 was not a kind year to over a billion of our neighbors who remain hungry overseas and here at home.

Who's Involved With Hunger is aptly titled. We keep copies on our desks and we know the guide is widely used by our staff and affiliates in Washington and around the world. There are a lot of guides but few can claim that distinction.

As Republican and Democratic leaders in the anti-hunger movement, we have a long history of working against hunger in a bi-partisan fashion. Today we reiterate our commitment to work hard and to work together in Congress against the solvable scourge of hunger. We know you have the same commitment. With this enthusiasm and with the opportunities at our doorstep that exist today, ending hunger is a dream closer to our grasp than ever before. Use Who's Involved With Hunger. Use it well and use it often.

Sincerely,

Benjamin A. Gilman, Chairman
International Relations Committee
U.S. House of Representatives

Tony P. Hall, Chairman
Task Force on Hunger
Democratic Caucus

The Hon. Benjamin A. Gilman

U.S. Voluntary Development Aid

Editor's Note:
The organizations here are only a sample of the several hundred U.S.-based private voluntary organizations which provide technical or financial assistance in economically poor countries ("PVOs" in U.S. government terms). The American Council for Voluntary International Action (InterAction) below can provide a more complete overview. Or consult The International Donor Directory published by the International Partnership for Human Development (12020 Sunrise Valley Drive, Suite 160, Reston, Virginia 22091, USA; tel. 703-391-0020; fax 703-391-0029). It includes hundreds of PVOs, foundations, and government development aid agencies in twenty-three countries.

Most U.S. PVOs educate Americans about development and build respect for people in developing countries as part of their mission. In addition to producing educational resources of their own, the American Friends Service Committee, Church World Service, and the Mennonite Central Committee also maintain lending libraries of films and videos from many sources.

Some PVO development education resources avoid or mute self-promotion so discretely that any classroom teacher or discussion leader can use the materials in full confidence. In other cases, PVO print and audiovisual materials so clearly have fund raising as a major or even primary objective that educators may find them inappropriate for the classroom. An obvious word of caution is in order: preview everything before using it and exercise discretion.
